Launching 17 New Academic Programs to Prepare National Talent for Future Needs

Al Ain University has announced the launch of 17 new academic programs across the bachelor's, master's, doctoral, and professional diploma levels, reflecting its national and societal commitment to preparing young talent capable of keeping pace with the evolving demands of the labor market in vital fields such as artificial intelligence, digital media, and health sciences.

The newly introduced programs include a Bachelor of Science in Artificial Intelligence and Robotics, a Master of Science in Artificial Intelligence, and a Master's degree in Software Systems Engineering, in addition to advanced specializations in Digital Media, Public Relations, Communication and Crisis Management, and Advertising and Digital Marketing. These offerings strengthen the University's presence in the creative industries and digital transformation sectors, which are national priorities for the UAE.

In the healthcare sector, the University has launched a Bachelor of Dental Surgery (BDS)—the first of its kind in Abu Dhabi—along with a Bachelor of Science in Nursing, in response to the growing demand for qualified medical professionals.

The programs also cover education and social sciences, including a Master of Arts in Applied Sociology, a Master of Education in Gifted and Talented Education, and a Postgraduate Professional Diploma in Early Childhood Education, aimed at preparing specialists capable of delivering innovative solutions in human development.
